

Call for Submission for Workshop:

“Ex-PhD-ition” - Gameful Support for the PhD Student’s Journey

This workshop will introduce the prototype of a game aimed at supporting PhD students with the project planning aspects of the pursuit of their degree. “Ex-PhD-ition” does so by incorporating techniques from classic and agile project management into a customizable board game with role-playing aspects. After reflecting on their own PhD journey, the participants will play the first part of the game and discuss their impressions as well as possible improvements. In the end, they are encouraged to take the material home to add to their own practice.

Apply as a workshop participant via e-mail to Johanna Kleinen (johanna_maria.kleinen@daimler.com) until 25.06.2019 if you would enjoy both trying out “Ex-PhD-ition” and engaging in a discussion about it. PhD students in all phases of their dissertation process as well as interested supervisors of doctoral students are welcome. Please include your name, contact information and how far you are into your PhD in your application. There are 12 spaces available and participants will be selected randomly while ensuring a mix of attendants in different stages of their PhD experience. They will receive confirmation of their spaces on the 26.06.2019 via e-mail.